What's the takeaway from all that?

If you ask people to self-rate their health (poor, fair, good, etc)...

then you can "predict" things like their health, income, and even mortality and if you can predict who is likely to have poor health, low-income, or early mortality then we can do something beforehand to prevent it!!!!